

Paco's dream comes true: Scotland on the horizon ...

Scotland on the horizon ...

Prepositions

A preposition links nouns, pronouns and phrases to other words in a sentence. The word or phrase that the preposition introduces is called the object of the preposition.

A preposition usually indicates the temporal, spatial or logical relationship of its object to the rest of the sentence:

My keys are on the table.

Prepositional phrases 1

A prepositional phrase is made up of the preposition, its object and any associated adjectives or adverbs. A prepositional phrase can function as a noun, an adjective, or an adverb:

According to my teacher, Maths is not a difficult subject.

My little sister works hard at school.

Prepositional phrases 2

Phrases are groups of words that function together.

Prepositional phrases function like adjectives or adverbs.

They describe nouns or verbs.

A prepositional phrase starts with a preposition. It ends with a noun or a noun substitute. It may contain adjectives describing the noun at the end of the phrase. The noun at the end of the phrase is called the object of the preposition:

After lunch my family sits in the living room to relax for a while.

Prepositional phrases 3

Here you have other examples of common prepositional phrases:

- 1) I prefer tea instead of vodka.
- 2) In case of bad weather, we will take some umbrellas.
- 3) On behalf of my father, I would like to thank you.
- 4) We finally got our destiny by means of a GPS in the car.
- 5) Apart from my family, nobody wants to work on this project.